

RASPBERRY MUFFINS

For the topping:

3 tablespoons light brown sugar

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons butter, chilled

For the muffins:

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups all-purpose flour

2 teaspoons baking powder

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar

2 teaspoons baking soda

1 egg, lightly beaten

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup buttermilk, at room temperature

1 tablespoon melted butter

10 ounces frozen raspberries, thawed

For the topping, mix the brown sugar and cinnamon and set aside. Cut the chilled butter in 16 thin shavings and set aside.

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Butter 16 muffin cups.

In a mixing bowl, stir together the flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and baking soda.

In another bowl, stir together the egg, buttermilk, melted butter and raspberries, including the juice.

Stir the liquid ingredients into the dry. Mix until the batter is combined — barely 15 seconds or so — the batter will be slightly lumpy.

Fill the muffin cups $\frac{2}{3}$ full. Rapidly sprinkle some topping mixture over each muffin and dot each with a piece of butter.

Bake for 25 minutes. Serve warm.

Makes 16 muffins.
