

Ukrop's Words Worth Eating

BAKED CHICKEN WITH BRIE AND VEGETABLES

"A gourmand's delight!"

1 oven roasting chicken
1 large triangular wedge of brie, cut in chunks (do not remove rind)
1 rib of celery
1 medium onion
No stick vegetable cooking spray

1-2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil herbs of Provence (combination of rosemary, thyme, marjoram, oregano, and basil) 6 medium white potatoes, quartered

(over)

6 medium carrots, peeled and cut into 2-inch pieces

6 small to medium zucchini,
cut into 2-inch pieces

Preheat oven to 350. Remove giblets and neck from cavity if necessary. Rinse chicken in cold water and pat dry. Stuff hen with celery, peeled onion and brie; place in an oven-to-table roasting pan that has been lightly sprayed with cooking oil. Rub hen with olive oil and pat all over with herbs. Place the vegetables around the hen in the roasting pan: cover with heavy -duty aluminum foil, and bake for 2 1/2 hours. Remove foil and bake an additional 30 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves 6-8 depending on appetites of guests and remaining menu.

Serving Note: Leave chicken in roasting dish to carve; surround each portion of chicken with vegetables and spoon melted brie over chicken or vegetables.

"Easy to prepare and forget until time to serve!"

The use of this material and the words 'Words Worth Eating' is licensed by Jacquelyn G. Legg.