

HOT OYSTER SANDWICH

"A New Orleans specialty!"

Oysters:

2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon milk
1½ - 2 cups plain bread crumbs
1 - 1½ teaspoons Cajun seasoning
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ - ½ teaspoon paprika
2 quarts select oysters, drained
Canola oil, for frying

1-2 cups prepared cocktail sauce
(see note)

2-3 cups Ukrop's Cole slaw

Bread:

1 16-ounce loaf of French bread
unsliced
3-4 tablespoons butter, melted
½ teaspoon hot sauce

...from our collection of family favorites

Bread: Trim a 1-inch slice off top of loaf of bread and set aside. Scoop out inside of loaf leaving a 1-inch shell. (Set bread aside to save for other uses.) Brush inside of bread with melted butter and place on baking sheet. Bake for 6-8 minutes in a preheated 400 degree oven; allow to cool completely before filling.

Oysters: Combine eggs and milk in a small bowl and set aside. Combine breadcrumbs and the next 4 ingredients and place in a pie plate or dinner plate. Individually dip oysters in egg mixture and then dredge in breadcrumb mixture; place on a sheet of waxed paper until ready to fry.

To Fry: Pour oil 1-inch deep in a heavy, deep skillet or chicken frying pan. Heat oil to 375 degrees and fry oysters a few at a time for approximately 3-4 minutes or until golden brown. Do not overcook. Remove oysters and drain on brown paper. When oysters are fried; use to fill bread and top with the 1-inch top slice. Cut into 2-inch slices and serve immediately with hot sauce, seafood cocktail sauce, sliced lemons and Cole slaw.

Serving suggestion: Use hoagie rolls to make individual sandwiches.

Note: At Ukrop's there are a couple of good cocktail sauces; one from Ukrop's Kitchen and the other is Silver Spring Seafood Cocktail Sauce.

"Serve for a football playoff party, on a winter ski trip or for Mardi Gras!"

The use of this material and the words 'Words Worth Eating' is licensed by Jacquelyn G. Legg.