Heat oven to 375°. Trim rib bones down 1-1 1/2" and between each one so that they stick out and are clean of meat. (This is known as Frenching). Coat roast on all surfaces with peppered seasoning. Place roast, bones up, in shallow roasting pan. Roast for 1-1 1/2 hours, until internal temperature reaches 150-155° with a meat thermometer. Remove roast from oven; let rest until temperature reaches 160°, about 10 minutes. Cut between rib bones to serve.
