

Boiled Custard

- Mom Hodge

2 cups hot milk (see below)

Speck salt (or pinch)

3 egg yolks

Flavoring 1 or 2 Tsp

3 tbsp sugar

Place milk in double boiler and heat until skim forms over milk. Beat the yolks slightly, add sugar and salt. Take milk off stove (the top pan), slowly stir egg yolks into milk, stir well to mix. Replace pan in bottom part of double boiler, cook stirring until the mixture thickens and forms a coating on the spoon. Remove at once, cool and flavor. If custard curdles, beat with an egg beater. Beat egg whites very stiff and add 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar.

(Over)

Place by spoonfuls in water which is hot but not boiling. Cover the dish. Test occasionally by putting a knife into it; when it is done nothing will stick to the knife. Remove from the water with a wire egg beater or split spoon and place on top of the custard.
